Success in examinations depends not only on intelligence but also on discipline and consistency. Students who follow a regular study routine develop confidence and clarity of concepts. Procrastination, on the other hand, increases stress and reduces efficiency. Setting realistic goals, revising regularly, and practising previous years' questions help students identify weak areas. Teachers and parents play an important role by guiding students and motivating them to stay focused. Ultimately, self-belief and sincere effort turn preparation into achievement.

Answer the following questions:

1. What does success in examinations depend on apart from intelligence? (1)
  2. How does a regular study routine help students? (1)
  3. What effect does procrastination have on students? (1)

A2. Unseen Passage – 2 (10 Marks)

Water is one of the most valuable natural resources on Earth. Despite covering a large portion of the planet, only a small percentage of water is fit for human consumption. Rapid urbanisation, industrial waste, and careless usage have led to water scarcity in many regions. Simple actions such as fixing leaking taps, harvesting rainwater, and reusing water for household purposes can conserve water effectively. Awareness among citizens is essential to protect this precious resource for future generations.

Answer the following questions:

1. Why is usable water limited despite large water coverage on Earth? (1)
  2. Mention two causes of water scarcity. (2)
  3. State any two methods to conserve water at home. (2)
